DETAILED ACTION

1. In view of newly discovered art, the examiner has withdrawn the indication of allowable subject matter set forth in the final office action. The examiner apologizes to the applicants for any problems that this may cause. The finality of the previous Office Action has been withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lui et al. (2004/0081764).

4. Lui et al teach a substrate (33) which is coated on one side with a hard coat material comprising particles (36) and a pressure sensitive adhesive on the opposite side (34d). The examples show filler amounts within the claimed range (51 parts binders and 88 parts of 40% particles (35.2 parts solid), with 15.6 parts dimethylacrylamide added (second binder component)).

FIG. 5Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lui et al. (2004/0081764).

The structure of the hard coat / adhesive structures of Lui et al. are taught above. The applicants claim additional feature directed to the thickness of the adhesive layer (claim 14), printing on the substrate (claim 15), and a printed adhesive layer (claim 16).

Art Unit: 1773

Regarding the thickness of the adhesive layer, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have optimized the thickness of the adhesive layer depending on the end use of the film. “[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation.” In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955)

Regarding the printing of the substrate, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have printed a log or other information on the substrate to identify the product depending on what was desired for the end use of the material.

Regarding printing the adhesive layer, the adhesive could be applied by gravure printing either in a continuous layer or in a pattern. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art that a patterned adhesive would have lower adhesive properties because it would not have as much contact area.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 13-16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
